

SAVE OUR SEAS!

WRITING ANTHOLOGY

Recruiting all young people: send us your work for a chance to become a published author!

Illustrations provided by Hannah MacDonald
@hannahmac_studio

You could see your work published in Plymouth's 4th anthology of young people's writing.

This year's theme is:

PLASTIC IN THE OCEAN

We're looking for writing about Plymouth's environment and the impact that plastic has on our marine and coastal life.

What does ocean pollution mean for your future?
How do you think we can save our seas?
Do you have a message for the people of Plymouth that you'd like to share?

Tell us your thoughts with a poem or a story. You might even want to create an illustration. You can work in groups or by yourself, but all entries must be written in your own words (don't be afraid to ask a teacher/parent for help).

You can send your submissions to plymouthanthology@gmail.com with your name, age, school and the title of your piece.

To get started, send us an email to access our virtual workshops.

The deadline for submissions is Monday 1st March 2021.

Good luck!